

Investing amid uncertainty

Recessions. Inverted yield curves. Insider selling. The reasons for cashing out of all your investments seems to be growing day by day. Fear in the market seems to be increasing while confidence heads the opposite direction. So what should you do?

In today's podcast we discuss how to invest amid the uncertainty. The underlying foundation of any investment should be made based upon the goals for the money. We call it an investment policy or strategy.

The problem – not enough people know what their strategy is so they get lost in the day to day news of the market. Well, that ends today!

Listen to today's podcast, gain an understanding, then contact us if you don't know the "why" behind your investing.

Here's to wise investing,

Brian, Brett, Spencer and the Iron Gate Team

Click here to subscribe and listen to in iTunes

Is your wealth protected?

One of the great ironies of investing is how people view risk. As clients initially come to us, their greatest fear is losing the money they have worked their entire lives to save.

Now don't get us wrong, that is a very important concern. However, after we begin working with and educating people, it becomes clear what the most important risk actually is.

In today's podcast we address the biggest risk facing anyone. THIS RISK, if not addressed properly, can rob you blind without you even knowing it. THIS RISK is something that not enough people address because it's different than the standard academic answer for portfolio management.

We discuss THIS RISK, how to escape it, the role of volatility, dividends, interest rates and a whole lot more.

Buckle in! you're going to love the ride we're going to take you on!

Here's to wise investing,

Brian, Brett & the Iron Gate Global Team

Click here to listen and subscribe to on iTunes

The curve has inverted, is a recession next?

If you turn on the TV, you will no doubt hear that the market was not only hammered today, but that there is a looming recession.

An indicator for predicting recessions set-off a red light today and it's 9 for 9 in its predictions since 1957.

In today's podcast, we discuss that indicator (the yield curve) and what that may mean for the market and your portfolio. The good news is that if history holds true, there could be some nice upside for your portfolio.

Here's to wise investing,

Brian, Brett, Spencer and the Iron Gate Team

Should you buy or sell the stock market right now?

The market has been volatile as of late, dropping 5+% over the last week. Trade wars, interest rates, an earnings recession, Presidential tweets, and much more are causing concern in the market.

As the market pulls back, the question now becomes – should we buy or sell?

In today's podcast we answer that very question. We share our process for determining what is a buy and what is a sell. We address the disciplined process that Iron Gate has been using for 20 years.

All of this is discussed to help investors stay calm when the storm hits the market (which it always does).

Here's to wise investing,

Brian, Brett and the Iron Gate Team

*This podcast is for educational purposes only and does not constitute a buy or sell recommendation