

The key to making money over time (it's not what you think)

Everyone has long-term goals that they are trying to reach. Retirement, college funding, a new house, a second house, a new car, and on and on.

So, what is the key to making those goals reality? In today's podcast we will tell you exactly what that key is. Contrary to belief, the one thing it is not is investment return.

We will go back in time, review the last nine months of the market and share with you some Morningstar statistics that will cause you to reflect about your own behavior.

Finally, we discuss why so few people can actually manage their own money, the birthplace of pizza and the role of vinegar in a healthy diet.

Here's to wise investing,

Spencer, Brett and the Iron Gate Team